Former Local Woman Operates Bulldozer in Indiana

LIFE ELSEWHERE: Carmi, like other towns, has its woes at times, I guess.

Anyhow, the Carmi Times comes out with a headline story which says so. Here is how the Times puts it:

"If you live in the City of Carmi, you are faced with the problem of how to get rid of the city's garbage. You had better resort to a palm leaf fan, set aside a couple of jugs of water and lay in a supply of candles if you don't own an old-fashioned coal oil lamp, because you are apt to be fresh out of water, light and power."

Reason for the impending famine, the Times points out, is that the city has more than doubled in square mile area since 1947, with the resultant demand made on the city-owned plants, this augmented by various types of installations put in by residents during the past few years.

The city plants, however, showed gross receipts of $303,748.50 for the year compared with expenses of $244,083. The net was transferred to the general fund and into the bond fund.

WE GROW 'EM BETTER DEPT.: There was a story in the Indianapolis paper a week ago Sunday about a woman who was born in Harrisburg. She is Mrs. Geneva Fuller of Brooklyn, in Marion county, Indiana. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Whiteside, live in Morrisville.

Now Mrs. Fuller just weighs 107 pounds; so we couldn't title this division of the column the "We Grow 'Em Bigger Dept." But the odd thing about it all is that this woman operates an 11-ton bulldozer.

The article, entitled "She Hits Pay Dirt," says that Mrs. Fuller, mother of five children, may be the only woman "catskinner" in the country.

Mrs. Fuller's bulldozing skill first was brought to light in an article in Nation's Business and recently Herb Shriner began negotiating for her appearance on his TV show.

Edna Logsdon, a friend of Mrs. Fuller, who brought in the article, said that Mrs. Fuller also operates a Serve-U laundry at Brooklyn.

And Mrs. Fuller, herself, says: "I've been able to rear five children and take part in community activities; so I'm surprised there's so much fuss over the fact that I operate a tractor."

Form Manhunt For Slayer of 2-Year-Old Girl

Child Kidnaped From Crib While Parents Watch TV

SIoux CITY, Iowa (AP) — One of the biggest manhunts in the history of the Midwest formed today to find the brutal slayer of 2-year-old Donna Sue Davis. A general police alert was sounded through mid-continent, the FBI actively entered the case and thousands of volunteers, armed with a description of the killer joined in the search.

Meanwhile, police here planned a roundup of all known sex deviates after being informed by Police Chief James O'Keefe that the child "definitely had been raped."

The blonde, curly-haired tot, who was kidnaped from her crib Sunday night while her parents watched television, was found beaten to death late Monday at the edge of a muddy cornfield.

Strips of her pink pajama tops were wound around her neck. Otherwise, she was unclothed. The pajama tops were the same Donna was wearing when her mother tucked her into bed with the words:

"Three to get ready and four to go—to bed."

Police said Donna had been sexually attacked, then beaten to death by blows on the head. An autopsy showed she had suffered a skull fracture, a broken jaw and abrasions on her body.

The blue-eyed girl, described by neighbors as "a living doll," was killed about an hour after she was abducted, police said. Her body apparently was hurled from an automobile into the gravel ditch where it was found.

Police said the slaying was the work of a "sex degenerate." They held one suspect, but officials indicated that so far he had not been connected directly with the crime. They declined to identify him or furnish any other details.

The bottom of Donna's pajamas, her rubber panties and a diaper were discovered about a half-mile down the gravel road which borders the farm of Ernest Oehlrich across the Missouri River near South Sioux City, Neb.

Meanwhile, his wife and her sister-in-law, Mrs. William Oehlrich—accompanied by their seven daughters, aged one to 13—set out along the gravel road in a car in an effort to find the body.

About a half-mile down the road, the children spotted the body and screamed in horror. One of the children said Donna was stretched out beside stalks of corn "like she was sleeping."

Donna disappeared from her crib while her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Davis, watched a television program.

Davis, 39, is a clerk for the Chicago and North Western Railroad.

Funeral Today for Shawneetown Woman

Funeral services for Mrs. Mamie Hobbs, Shawneetown resident who died Sunday morning, were held today at 2 p. m. at the Cave-in-Rock Methodist church. Burial was in the Hall cemetery.

BEULAH CAMP INSTITUTE AT ELDORADO has a total enrollment of 1,250 according to Rev. R. E. George of Windsor, camp registrar. Monday was registration day with the senior campers registering for classes under the direction of Rev. William Henderson of Vandalia and the intermediates were assisted in selecting their classes by Rev. Paul W. Ragdale of Olney. The above party was taken as a group of senior campers awaited their turn to complete registration cards. The camp officially opened with the serving of the evening meal Monday and worship services were held last night. Full-day programs are scheduled for the remainder of the week, starting with morning call at 7 a. m. Following morning watch service and breakfast there are class sessions during the morning. After lunch there is a rest period from 10:15 to 10:30 and lights are out at 11 p. m. The Beulah Institute is one of the largest religious youth meetings in the state, attracting worshippers from as far north as Effingham and all the way south to Cairo. Although there are 211 permanent buildings on the grounds, including large, two-story dormitories it was necessary to erect 21 huge tents to accommodate the crowds. The tents are used for class rooms, and others for living quarters. The evangelistic services are held in the large tabernacle, with Rev. Herbert Massey, pastor of the Centenary Methodist church, East Palestine, Ohio, the speaker. (Register Staff Photo)

Truman Doubts Russia Will Live Up To Any Agreement

CHICAGO (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman says that he doubts the Russians will live up to any agreement reached at the Big Four conference.

Mr. Truman, in town for the Shrine convention, said Monday he hopes the conference will be a success but answered "I don't know" when asked if he thought the Russians would abide by any agreements.

"They have never stood up for any former agreement," he said. Truman disclaimed any knowledge of a Democratic campaign to back Gov. Frank G. Clement of Tennessee for vice president in 1956. But he reaffirmed his support of Adlai E. Stevenson for the 1956 Democratic presidential nomination.

Clark Gable Weds Actress Kay Williams

MINDEN, Nev. (AP) — A new "queen" reigned over Hollywood today—blonde actress Kay Williams.

Miss Williams became the fifth wife of Clark Gable, the graying, he-man actor known as "the king," in a spur of the moment ceremony performed by a justice of the peace here Monday.

The marriage climaxed 13 years of friendship between the 54-year-old Gable and Miss Williams, 37, whose battles in court and otherwise with her former husband, millionaire playboy Adolph Spreckels II, made Hollywood history.

Gable had a cabin at Lake Tahoe, where he often spends week-ends hunting and fishing in the early summer. He established residence there three years ago to obtain a divorce from his fourth wife, Lady Sylvia Ashley.

Gable and Miss Williams made headlines in 1951 when Spreckels testified in a pre-divorce trial hearing that she told him she had been intimate with Gable. Miss Williams denied the accusation.

Gable's previous wives were drama coach Josephine Dillon, Reah Langham, actress Carole Lombard, who was killed in a 1941 plane crash, and Lady Ashley whom he married in 1949 and divorced in 1952. After reportedly settling $150,000 on her.

Miss Williams, originally from Erie, Pa., was married briefly in 1942 to Argentine sportsman Martin de Alzaga Unzué. In 1945 she married Spreckels and divorced him seven years later. During a series of stormy court battles, she accused him of beating her, chopping down her door and using abusive language.

In August, 1953, Spreckels beat her so severely with a shoe that she had to go to a hospital. He spent 30 days in jail for assault. She won custody of their two children, Joan, 4½, and Adolph III, 6, during the divorce.

Eisenhower Outlines Goals Of Geneva Talks

Addresses Foreign Exchange Students; Meets with Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he is going to next week's Big Four conference in the hope of bringing the world "closer to peace" and making it possible for people everywhere to live "more tranquilly."

Mr. Eisenhower set forth his Geneva goals in an impromptu speech to a group of foreign exchange students shortly after he discussed the forthcoming summit meeting with 25 congressional leaders of both parties.

Addressing the exchange students in the White House Rose Garden, the President said that at Geneva:

"We will try to explore the reasons why this world does not seem to get closer to peace and to try to find roads that, if the world follows, all of you may live a little bit more tranquilly than have the people of my generation."

He told the youths that people "don't want conflict; that it is only 'mistaken leaders' that grow too belligerent and believe that people really want to fight."

Open-Minded Attitude

Apparently reflecting its own approach to the Geneva conference, he advised the students to adopt an "open-minded, conciliatory attitude" toward the viewpoints of others. But at the same time, he said, "never sacrifice the basic principle that the human being is the important thing on this planet."

Mr. Eisenhower said that in the United States there is a strong belief in the rights of individuals. There is no desire on the part of America to want to fight.

"And so as we go to Geneva," he said, "we are hopeful that there may be some way in which all of you can live out your lives tranquilly, helping over the years to promote the kind of understanding that you have gathered in the past year, that you will help spread in your own countries when you go home, helping to spread the understanding that will lead to the peacefulness of your own lives and the lives that come after you."

Several city councils Monday night approved the new levy—the first to act under new powers granted by the Legislature.

They included Lincoln, Streator, Waukegan, North Chicago, Zion and River Forest, Marion, Cairo, Benton and Herrin.

Chicago and other cities are ready to follow suit shortly. In virtually all cases, the city tax will be tacked on Aug. 1, making the total state and city sales taxes 3 cents on the dollar.

Cities long have had power to levy their own sales tax, but only after they got voter approval. No city ever accomplished this.

Last month, the Legislature voted to boost the state sales tax from 2 per cent to 2 1/2 per cent, effective July 1. At the same time, it repealed the referendum requirement for a city sales levy.

The Marion City Council passed a 1-2 cent city sales tax and dropped a wheel tax.

The council made the sales tax effective Aug. 1 and repealed the wheel tax levied last month. Finance Commissioner William Armstrong estimated the sales tax would bring in about $60,000 yearly to Marion, which has not been able to pay some of its bills recently. The wheel tax would have brought in about $20,000 a year.

The Cairo City Council also passed city sales tax of 1 cent. The action caught some Cairo residents by surprise, including a delegation of merchants who went to the meeting to object to the tax.

The Cairo tax also becomes effective Aug. 1.

The ordinance was read and passed before the merchants' delegation had a chance to present its objections. The retail merchants claim the tax will work a hardship on Cairo merchants because of the city's geographical position. They said they have to compete with merchants in Missouri and Kentucky cities which do not have city sales taxes.

Mr. Staiger was retired from the National Stockyard bank in Chicago where he was employed for 40 years.

Besides his brother he leaves one daughter, Ruth Staiger, and a sister, Mrs. Charles Loos, Ambrosy, Ill. His wife died five years ago.

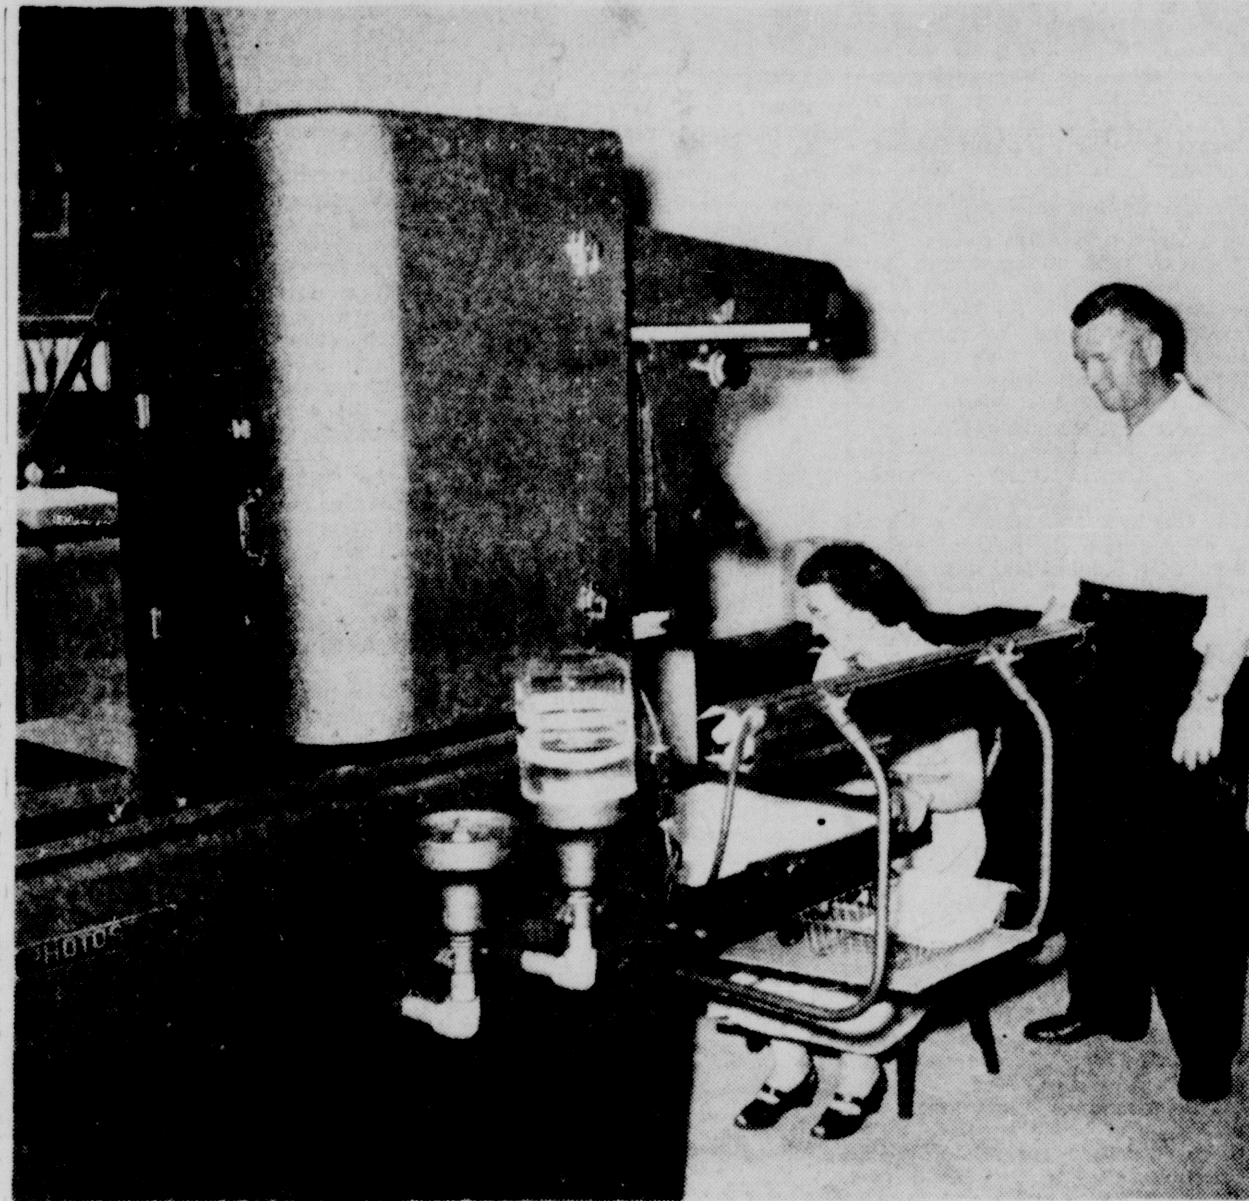

The body is now at the Cotheran funeral home in Chicago and funeral and burial will be in Chicago.

Troop 23 Scouts Attend Camp

Twenty-one members of Troop 23, Harrisburg Boy Scouts, are attending camp at the Boy Scout camp on Little Grassy Lake this week.

J. A. Dillon, assistant Scoutmaster of Troop 23, sponsored by the Harrisburg Presbyterian church, accompanied twenty members of the troop for the week's camping activities.

Other adult leaders plan to attend the camp during the week, so there will be at least two leaders with the troop each night of the camp.

PHOTOSTAT EQUIPMENT INSTALLED in the Saline County Circuit Clerk and Recorder's office being operated by Louise LaBaw, deputy, as Circuit Clerk Quentin Bowers watches. The equipment will be used to photostat all documents filed for recording. The documents are actually photographed, eliminating all chances for error and also speeds up the work considerably. It takes approximately 20 minutes to complete a photostat, from the time it is photographed until it is developed, fixed, washed and dried. However, the machine is capable of working on more than one document at a time in the various processes and will take a new document every minute, meaning that once the equipment is in full operation a photostat copy is rolling out every 60 seconds. Marion, Cairo, Benton, Herrin Adopt Sales Tax

By United Press

Illinois cities have begun to adopt a half-cent sales tax to ease their revenue headaches.

Lions Governor Visits Local Club

The newly elected governor of Lions district I-C paid an official visit to the Harrisburg Lions club Monday evening.

H. E. Muder of Fairfield, governor of Lions I-C, addressed the Harrisburg club on the aims of Lionism and urged the members to be an active force in the community.

Accompanying Gov. Muder were Omar Hobbs, Eldorado jeweler, deputy district governor; Glen Muckley, Eldorado businessman, past president of the Eldorado Lions club; and Lloyd Green Jr., Lion from Fairfield.

Install Photostat Recorder in Office of Circuit Clerk Quentin Bowers

Just installed in the office of Quentin Bowers, Circuit Clerk and Recorder of Saline county, is the latest model of Photostat photographic recording apparatus.

Saline county is the only county in Illinois with this particular model apparatus, although approximately 40 counties in the state have been using Photostat apparatus for long periods of time.

Due to the increased volume of work, mainly as a result of the development in Saline county, Circuit Clerk Bowers asked the Saline County Board of Supervisors to investigate such apparatus. Following an investigation an order was placed with Photostat Corp., Rochester, N. Y., for Model I, Continuous Photostat Recorder.

All possibility of error in transcribing mortgages, leases, deeds and other documents is eliminated by the use of this machine.

The device actually makes a photographic copy of the original document and all processing is done within the machine automatically.

The operator places the document to be copied under a glass cover and presses a button to make the exposure. Two documents may be copied on one sheet of film so after one has been copied, it is replaced by another document.

After the button is pressed again electronic devices within the exposed sheet from the roll of paper, drop it into the unit where it is automatically developed, fixed, washed and dried.

Group Wields Economy Axe on Appropriations

Funds Also Denied For Proposed Prison in Illinois

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations committee, wielding its economy axe for the last time this session, today denied funds for the proposed Air Force Academy, President Eisenhower's atomic peace ship, and free distribution of polio vaccine.

It whacked heavily into the President's budget requests for expansion and improvement of atomic plants, for making civil defense evacuation plans for 29 big target cities, and for U. S. participation in international trade fairs as a counter to Communist propaganda.

The committee, meeting for what probably was its last session this year, took the actions in reporting to the House a supplemental appropriation bill totalling $1,648,875, 128, for a scattering of agencies and functions for which the President had sought extra funds totalling $1,927,785,868.

This cut of $278,909,740—about 14.5 per cent—was to be piled atop claimed committee reductions totalling about $2,185,000,000 in earlier appropriations this year, although some of the previous cuts had been restored by House or Senate.

Main items in the bill as approved included:

$1,402,329,000 for military construction projects (not including the Air Academy) for which the administration had asked $1,480,000,000;

$138,577,000—a cut of $156,123,000—for plant expansion and stepped-up research by the Atomic Energy Commission;

$8,650,000 for civil defense, against the $16,050,000 requested.

The rejection of funds to start building the $126,000,000 new Air Academy, at Colorado Springs, Colo., came amid mounting criticism of the ultra modern design recently published by the Air Force as its plan for the new service school.

Talbot Explains Plan

Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbot told the appropriations group this design was not final. So the committee denied his request for $79,000,000 in construction funds, and told him not to spend $15,000,000 appropriated earlier, until plans are finally agreed on.

It suggested that he consult the government's fine arts commission before making up his mind.

The committee also expressed concern over the "seeming centralization of military activities" in the Colorado Springs area, which already has the Army's Camp Carson and the Air Defense command. It "suggested . . . that with special reference" to the availability of adequate water supplies.

The committee denied $17,100,000 sought by the Justice Department to build a new maximum security prison, somewhere in mid-country, to replace Alcatraz. The

Bob Wilson, 15, Seriously Hurt in Motorbike Crash

A local youth received serious injuries and another was hurt slightly late yesterday when the motorbike on which they were riding hit a tree on South Granger street.

In the Harrisburg hospital suffering a skull fracture, a 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson, 13 East Park street, Jerry Armistead, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Armistead, sustained a neck injury.

City police said that the motorbike was travelling north on Granger about 5:55 p. m. with Wilson driving and Armistead riding. The vehicle left the street near Church and crashed into a tree.

Both boys were rushed to the hospital. X-ray pictures showed that young Wilson suffered the skull and leg fractures. An x-ray picture taken of Armistead's neck did not reveal any serious injury.

The Right to Travel

Editorial By Bruce Blossat

In the Communist world, a man may not travel from town to town without the government's permission. He is virtually frozen in his place of residence, as he is in his job. We Americans look upon such restrictions with horror.

Freedom to move about as one wishes seems to most of us the very essence of liberty.

And yet the law does not actually guarantee us unlimited freedom of movement. It gives the secretary of state discretionary power to issue an American citizen a passage for foreign travel if he feels the national interest demands it.

In recent practice, the State Department has exercised this authority to deny many passports to U.
S. citizens on grounds they belonged to subversive organizations. The department felt their presence abroad would be a disadvantage to America.

The department has taken the position that the law accords it exclusive control of passport issuance, that it need hold no hearing,
nor allow any appeal from its rulings.

But some people have argued that this goes too far. They say the right to travel is fundamental,
and should not be curbed so arbitrarily.

Now the U. S. Court of Appeals, in Washington, has formally supported this view. It has declared that the State Department's authority to restrain foreign travel is not absolute and must not be arbitrary.

The court stated that the department's decisions must conform with the Fifth amendment to the U. S. Constitution, providing that no person shall be deprived of liberty without due process of law.

The case was that of one Mr.
Shachtman, head of the Independent Socialist League, listed by the U. S. attorney general as both subversive and communist. His passport application was thus denied,
though he contends his organization is actually antitotalitarian and anti-Stalinist and seeks socialism
by democratic means.

The appeals court sent the case
back to the lower federal court with orders that the State Department must show in judicial hearings further reasons why Shachtman should be refused a passport.

In reaching this conclusion, the appeals court said quite plainly that the right to travel is, as most Americans have understood it to be, a "natural right" protected by the Constitution.

Considerations of security and national policy may justify limiting this right for some people. But the court insists that these limits cannot be imposed without due process. A man denied a passport can require that the department show cause in judicial proceedings
why his natural right to travel should be abridged.

Next Question, Please

Those who are eager for some sure sign from President Eisenhower whether or not he will run again
in 1956 aren't getting much closer to that goal.

The President's only contribution to their dilemma in recent days has been a decidedly negative one. He is reported to have determined that, come what may,
he won't decide in 1955 what he will do about the presidency in 1956.

That should be small satisfaction
to the impatient folk who think he ought to decide when they want the answer. But at least it clears the air for a while. Maybe our hot reporters in Washington can ask some other question for a few months.

Sales Tax Collections

Up During June

SPRINGFIELD — Illinois sales tax collection for June, $18,479,788
in June, a yield $1,508,867 higher than in the same month last year.
Revenue Director Richard J. Lyons has announced.

The retail occupation tax or sales tax added up to $107,801,532, for the first six months of the year. This was $6,364,228 over the same six-month period last year.
June collections from the cigaret, liquor, motor fuel, petroleum, inspection, public utility, amusement device and private car line taxes totalled $39,934,685. Each yield was up for the month over last year except for amusement device taxes.

Russian Farmers Will Be Entertained With No Fancy Fol-
derol; Democratic Senators Frown On Dixon-Yates Publicity For Kefauver; German Lobby Pulls Wires For Allen
Property.

WASHINGTON — As Ike goes to Geneva for weighty confabs at the Summit, a tour which might reap a bigger friendship crop in the long run will be taking place in Des Moines and points west. Ike arrives in Geneva July 16. A delegation of Russian farm officials arrives in New York July 16. Inspired by the Des Moines Register-Tribune, theirs will be the first real visit of grass-roots Russians since Russian military men and their families lived in the U. S.
during the war. The State Department is playing this one smart. It's giving the Russian farmers no dicks or security men as guards and chaperones. The Russians will go anywhere anytime, see any farm, college or experiment station. Their entertainment will be by farm folks along the way, with the Des Moines Register-Tribune giving them the first big send-off when they arrive there July 17. After Des Moines and other Iowa
points, they'll visit Nebraska,
South Dakota, Minnesota, California, Chicago, and finally get back to Washington, D. C. The itinerary is entirely flexible and may change overnight.

Kefauver and Adlai — Some Democratic senators privately view the Dixon-Yates probe with mixed feelings. They recognize it as the best piece of inside work by the big bankers they have pinned on the Ike administration, but they also don't like to see Estes Kefauver run with the ball. The lank con-skin-copper from Tennessee might get too close to the presidential nomination again. Some jealous Democrats might try to trim his investigative sails. . . .
Mrs. Flour Cowles, who caused unfortunate friction between two devoted brothers, Mike and John Cowles, the Des Moines-Mineapolis publishers, has separated from Mike. She was Ike's special ambassador to the coronation of Queen Elizabeth, and being two-time divorcee, her appointment as envoy to a throne which frowns on divorce caused friction in the family. . . . Adlai Stevenson's advisers have been telling him he should get married again. What they don't know is that he doesn't need encouragement. He has a new girlfriend in Washington, lovely Sarita Peet. Idaho Republicans are looking for a strong candidate to take the senatorial nomination away from Senator Welker. Among others, they have their eye on Congressman Hamer Budge.

German Property Again —
Strange things are happening backstage regarding proposals to return wartime alien property to Germany and Japan. After prodigious wire-pulling at the last session of Congress, the German Alien Property lobby was defeated. This week, however, they may be on the brink of something big.
A move is on to sidestep the regular committees of Congress with a special resolution of Congress.

Early this year, modified alien property bills were sent by the Eisenhower administration to Congressman Percy Priest of Tennessee and Senator Kilgore of West Virginia, chairmen of the proper committees. Both were unenthusiastic about either returning alien property or paying for it. There was no action. Then suddenly Congressman Brooks Hays of Arkansas turned up as chairman of a special subcommittee of the Foreign Affairs committee to study
four short-cut resolutions providing for repayment of enemy property. Hurriedly, he held hearings. Few people knew about them in advance—except those working with the German cartel lobby.

With dozens of important bills before Congress on domestic problems, Hays is now pushing for fast action. On his subcommittee are H. G. Williams, N. J., Voorhis, Ohio, Bentley, Mich.,
Gov. Ed Johnson of Colorado has written his old friend, Chip Robert, one of the consulting engineers for the Air Force Academy asking Chip's help in preventing the proposed monstrosity of glass and aluminum from being built at Colorado Springs. . . . Though a consulting engineer, Chip wasn't consulted when the plans were drawn. . . .
Texas Cools — Texas oilmen
are really sputtering. They think Ike has let them down in abolishing federal control of natural gas,
while in Louisiana they're rootin'
tootin' mad over Tideland oil. . . .
Today (July 12) the Interior Department lets bids on oil lands underneath the Gulf of Mexico beyond the 3 mile limit which Louisiana claims is hers. The Ike administration, despite heavy oil contributions to the GOP, maintains otherwise. And though irate Louisiana will let bids for the exact same underwater oil area today,

Secretary McKay is going ahead
with his own leasing for the same territory. . . . The oil companies, not anxious to get into a long legal haggle with Uncle Sam, will probably cooperate with McKay. But this doesn't make Leander Perez and other oilmen a bit happy. They claim Ike is appealing to northern voters. . . . What the government is up against is international tangles with Russia, Mexico, Canada
—if we claim more than three miles out to sea. This was one trouble of the Siberian coast when the U. S. Navy patrol plane was shot down. The Russians claimed their boundary went out 20 miles.
We claimed they were entitled to only three miles.

Wooded and Spurred — Ike men
have made overtures to Bill Foster, undersecretary of defense under Truman, to take that job again, replacing retiring Bob Anderson. Foster, however, says he is a lifelong Republican. Foster did an A-1 job under Truman would have been glad to stay on under Eisenhower. But virtually all Republicans who served under Truman were eased out. Now
Foster doesn't want to come back.
. . . Joe Adams, Civil Aeronautics vice chairman, has written a ringing dissent in the CAB decision putting forth North American Airways out of business. He points out that even if North American violated CAB rulings, the CAB's job is to encourage the American system of competition, not discourage it. . . . If the majority CAB ruling stands, North American will have to close down a $15,000,000
business just before it was going to apply for a regular certificated route. . . . Portugal has appealed to the United States to send over more American fighters to replace the 12 that crashed, follow-the-leader fashion, into a mountain recently. This accident wiped out 20 per cent of the Portuguese air force. Even though the American embassy believes the accident might have been avoided by good pilots, the United States will probably send new planes to the Portuguese. . . . The Marine Corps has developed land mines to such perfection that all modern mine detectors are outmoded. The only way these amazing new mines can be detected is by probing with an old-fashioned wooden stick. . . .
On the eve of the Big Four conference, Ike has secretly ordered a speed-up in atomic weapons production.

3rd Armored Division
Good Will Team
To Visit Here Friday

A "good will" team from the 3rd
Armored Division will visit Harrisburg Friday, July 15, and will broadcast from radio station WEBQ at 3:45 p. m. The team is composed of Illinois men.

Mayor Claude Gibbons has proclaimed July 3rd Armored Division Month in Harrisburg and he urges all citizens, especially young men who are eligible for military service, to pay tribute to Operation Gyroscope, which is the Army's official name for their operation and to give notice to the recruitment drive.

Local recruiters stress that while thousands of young men have volunteered and are volunteering their service in the United States Army,
there still exists an acute shortage of volunteers to fill vacancies created by the demands on the Armed Forces by new and continuing developments.

Trucking Bill Is Vetoed by Gov. Stratton

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. William G. Stratton has vetoed one of the controversial trucking bills passed by the General Assembly.

The governor Monday announced his veto of the bill to increase tolerance for truck axle overloads.
The present tolerance allowed over the 18,000 pound axle limit is 350 pounds. The bill would have made this tolerance 1,000 pounds.

The bills were among those steered through the Legislature by Rep. Joseph D. Kohout (D-Chicago) for the trucking industry.
Another bill passed would extend the maximum length of trucks
from 45 ft. to 50 ft.

Bills signed into law by the governor will:
Give justices of the peace jurisdiction in misdemeanor cases where the fine does not exceed $500, instead of limiting justices to cases up to $300 fines.

Requires truckers to carry a copy of their operating permits
in the truck cab.
Require all vehicles to be registered before they can be used on the highways.

Make obtaining or attempting to obtain narcotic drugs under false pretenses a misdemeanor.
Increases per diem for town clerks and supervisors to $5-12 a day instead of $2.50-7.50.

Put a minimum of 500 gallons
capacity on most septic tanks.

An "electronic engineer" which operates on all standard model electric trains is capable of operating a train through voice impulses.

The temperature in the brake system of a car may exceed 250 degrees after a series of quick stops.

WASHINGTON (UP)—The chair- man of the Securities & Exchange Commission today refused to tell Senate investigators whether the White House, or anyone else in government, directed an abrupt recess in SEC hearings on Dixon-Yates financing.

His refusal came as a Senate anti-monopoly subcommittee pushed ahead with its investigation of the controversial power contract, despite President Eisenhower's order that the contract be cancelled.

Appeals Court Rules Sheppard Had Fair Trial

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Court of Appeals ruled today that Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard received a fair trial and should serve his life sentence for the bludgeon-murder of his wife, Marilyn.

The ruling came in a 69-page decision, and was on the first half of the appeal filed by Sheppard's attorneys asking for a new trial.

The three-judge court, in today's action, turned down the appeal based on alleged judicial errors during the 10-week trial.

The second appeal, which still has not been acted upon, is based on "newly-discovered evidence" that the defense claims points to someone else's guilt.

The three-judge court is expected to rule on the second motion later this month. If it rejects that motion, the 31-year-old osteopath would be taken to Ohio penitentiary to start serving his life sentence.

Committee Denies AF Academy Funds

location considered was downstate Illinois.

The committee turned down a request for $12,550,000 to build the full of Mr. Eisenhower's proposed peace ship and for $21,000,000 to build the atomic reactor to drive it. It pointed out that legislation to authorize this ship has not been approved by Congress.

AEC Has Funds

In chopping funds sought for other atomic construction the committee pointed out that AEC has $101,000,000 of unspent funds on hand. With this, and the $138,577,000 which it recommended in new money, the committee said the agency will have enough to get by.

Among specific atomic projects cut or denied was a proposed new hospital at Oak Ridge, Tenn. The committee said keeping the old one would be cheaper and it allowed $50,000 to put it in shape.

In the polio field the committee approved in full Mr. Eisenhower's request for $300,000 in extra enforcement money to ward off a possible black market in vaccine. It okayed without reduction $4,500,000 for grants to states to plan vaccination programs. It allowed in full $400,000 to build a new monkey house at the National Institutes of Health, to facilitate vaccine safety tests.

But the $30,000,000 sought by the President to furnish free vaccine to those who can't afford it was denied, on the ground no authorizing legislation has been passed.

Farm Aid Inadequate

The committee allowed $3,000,000 requested to step up the administration's program of aid for small farmers. But it denounced the sum and the program as inadequate, and renewed a running feud between the committee's Democratic majority and Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson over farm philosophy generally.

"Perhaps the only thing left for the Department of Agriculture to recommend is that the low-income farmer get a job in town," said the committee in its report. "And that is largely what it has recommended in support of funds provided in the accompanying bill."

The committee allowed $1,000,000, as requested, to cover expenses of the Big Four summit meeting and subsequent sessions of foreign ministers and negotiating groups.

Live Artillery Shell Removed from Sewer

CAMDEN, N. J. (AP) — Plumber Bill Whalen nearly fainted Monday when he got a better look at an obstruction he removed from a sewer Monday with a heavy iron bar.

The obstruction was a "live" 75 millimeter artillery shell. Army officials took it to nearby Ft. Dix to detonate it.

Stratton Signs Bill to Boost State Police

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Gov. William G. Stratton Monday announced his veto of 14 bills and signing of 124, including the measure to increase the state police force by 100 men.

The police bill will boost the total men on the force from 500 to 600.

Stratton vetoed a bill to appropriate 4.5 million dollars for a school building revolving fund. The Illinois School Problems commission had recommended the fund to aid schools which were overcrowded but have exhausted bonding power for new construction.

Stratton said he felt the bill would have offered only "token" aid to a handful of such overburdened schools.

He signed a series of bills which would extend to downstate cities the authority to establish municipal transportation systems, such as the Chicago Transportation Authority in Chicago. Stratton said the Rock Island-Moline quad-city area was particularly interested.

The governor vetoed a bill to require all state officers to let contracts for more than $2,500 on construction and $1,000 on personal services by competitive biddings.

These bills resulted from efforts to impose a ban against such contracts as the million dollar-plus surplus food hauling agreement given to James W. Dunbar of Springfield by Superintendent of Public Instruction Vernon L. Nickell.

Stratton said the requirement for competitive bids already applied to the governor's office and while it did not apply to other elective offices he was certain few contracts were let by these officers without competitive bidding.

But he said the bill as drawn was unconstitutional, anyway.

Bills signed included measures which will:

Exempt pension "reciprocity" between pension systems of political subdivisions, so that employees may transfer their pension rights between governmental bodies.

Authorize the Department of Conservation to dispose of Grand Marais State Park either to the East St. Louis Park District, East St. Louis, St. Clair county or by public sale.

Ban the sale of unpasteurized milk.

Create the Division of Traffic Safety.

Create the Alcoholic Liquor Legislative Commission with $5,000 for a two-year study of the sale and consumption of alcoholic beverages.

Create a commission with $15,000 for a study of mental health code with relation to admission and discharge of patients.

Continue the Mississippi Scenic Parkway Commission with a $10,000 appropriation.

Increase county superintendents of schools' salaries by $1,500 a year and assistant superintendents' salaries on a scale based on the assistant's educational background.

Permit circuit court judges to interchange with county and probate judges, and county and probate judges to interchange with circuit, superior, city, town and village and municipal courts in their own or other counties.

First Cadets Begin Training at Air Force Academy

DENVER (AP) — History's first 305 U. S. Air Force Academy cadets, began today the four-year course designed to educate them for leadership of a future air age.

The nation's third military academy opened its interim site on Lowry Air Force Base Monday. Actual classroom work will not begin until Sept. 15.

This class and the next one will train at the Lowry site, but the permanent, 126 million dollar, ultra-modern academy north of Colorado Springs will be ready for the 1957 class.

Signs Bill Requiring 'In God We Trust' Inscription on Coins

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower signed into law Monday a bill requiring the inscription "In God We Trust" to be put on all U. S. currency and coins. The words now appear on coins but not on paper money.

Gov't Sued for $100,675 Damages For Plane Accident

DES MOINES (AP) — Two suits asking the U. S. government for $100,675 in damages are on file in Federal Court in connection with an airplane accident July 2, 1953 at Quincy, Ill.

Wilbur Fry, a resident of Appanoose County, and Hubert Sines, Centerville, filed the suits Monday. Fry was owner of the airplane and asked $675. Sines, who was pilot, asked $100,000.

The petitions contended that

Sines was taking off from Baldwin field at Quincy when a government-owned plane, piloted by J. P. McDonnell, identified as an airways flight inspector for the civil aeronautics board, approached the field, crossed the runway at right angles at an altitude of 50 feet and "caused" the plane flown by Sines to crash.

In his petition, Sines said he has suffered permanent injuries and disfigurement of his body.

"Windfall" of Luck

In the time of William the Conqueror, it was a criminal offense to cut timber in the forests. Only such could be gathered as the wind had blown down, so a heavy windstorm was hailed as good luck. From this comes the modern application of "windfall" as expressing good luck.

Change Bonus Rule, Players Ask Major Leagues

MILWAUKEE, Wis., AP — A recommendation to change the major league baseball bonus rule was made Monday by player representatives of both leagues on eve of the annual All-Star game.

The players went on record favoring a limit of two bonus players from each club who would not count in the present roster limit of 25. Teams now can sign an unrestricted number of players who are paid more than a $4,000 bonus, but they must be retained on the major league roster for two years.

Player representatives of the American and National leagues felt that such bonus players were taking the place of men who should be in the big leagues, but who were sent down to make room for the bonus "kids."

Also recommended were rules to allow the players unrestricted winter league play for one year, and to provide that players may be invited, but not required, to report prior to March 1. The present rule bans spring practice before that date.

National League players reelected Robin Roberts of the Philadelphia Phillies as player representative for two years and named Ted Kluszewski of Cincinnati as his alternate. American League representative for the same period will be Bob Feller, Cleveland pitcher, with Washington infielder Eddie Yost as his alternate.

Roberts and Ralph Kiner of Cleveland were named to the pension committee with Feller and Kluszewski as alternates. A representative of the retirement corporation was scheduled to suggest a new pension plan, but he reported that a study of the old pension plan was not yet complete.

White House Considers Committee to Interest Youth in Competitive Sports

WASHINGTON, AP — The White House said today consideration is being given to the formation of a committee to interest youngsters in competitive sports — the subject discussed by President Eisenhower Monday at his meeting with 32 leaders from the sports world.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon was suggested as the coordinator of such an effort, but Nixon, who was present at the luncheon, said no formal plans were drawn up.

Mr. Eisenhower, a baseball and football player in his college days at West Point and now the nation's best-known amateur golfer, told his guests that something should be done to promote greater interest in competitive athletics, both as an aid to the nation's general health and as a weapon against juvenile delinquency.

The President said he found statistics on the physical condition of young Americans "more alarming than I thought."

The luncheon guests appeared enthusiastic about the President's idea and Jack Fleck, who recently scored a major surprise by winning the U. S. Open golf championship, commented, "You can easily see the importance of this thing, since so many athletes from youth programs become leaders in the military and also in civilian life."

Tony Trabert, who recently won the Wimbledon tennis championship in England, said the aim of the drive should be "not to make big stars, but to help little kids coming up."

Nixon also addressed the luncheon and suggested that athletic programs of schools be reviewed to see whether more children could participate. Along the same lines, Dr. Hans Drais of New York University said that lack of physical fitness could lead to heart trouble, mental illness, and other problems.

Archie Moore, light-heavyweight boxing champion, also spoke briefly and the girls boxer so impressed Mr. Eisenhower that the President suggested Moore "ought to be elected to Congress."

Bills Signed to Change Hunting, Fishing Seasons

SPRINGFIELD, AP — Gov. William G. Stratton Monday signed bills changing some hunting and fishing seasons.

The new laws give the Department of Conservation more authority on controlling the game and fish supply.

Two bills signed give the Conservation Department authority to lengthen or shorten hunting and fishing seasons within fixed limits to maintain a "biological balance" of fish and game in the state.

Another bill eliminates the central zone from hunting season regulations, setting seasons for northern and southern zones.

The pheasant hunting season will run from Nov. 11-30 instead of Nov. 11-25; quail season from Nov. 19 to Dec. 19 in 1955 and from Nov. 17 to Dec. 17 in 1956; rabbit season from Nov. 26 to Jan. 20; and two weeks are added to the coon season in northern Illinois.

Restrictions on lake trout and on the season and size of large mouth small mouth, Kentucky or spotted bass are removed. The season is changed for pickerel, northern pike, saugers or wall-eyed pike.

Red Sox May Be Short Elsewhere, But Have Pitching To Go All the Way

By HARRY GRAYSON NEA Sports Editor NEW YORK (NEA)—The Red Sox may not be too well equipped all the way along the line.

Versatile Billy Goodman, for example, belongs on first base, where he was in 1946, when the Sox won their only pennant in 28 years. Billy the Kid doesn't cover too much ground at second base.

The story of Grady Hatton is as unusual as Klaus, who installed at shortstop as a desperate last resort in the fire under the Back Bay Millionaires.

Hatton, passed along by the Reds, came as an afterthought throw-in in the $100,000 deal that sent George Kell to the White Sox in late May of last season.

Hatton is an established 200 hitter and will win a ball game for you now and then, but will Klaus, who spent eight years in the minors, maintain anything like his 300 batting pace? Mike Higgins has not yet made up his mind whether big boy North Zachin is another Wal Dropp, which would find him not swatting the long ball often enough.

The Red Sox are loaded where it counts most—in the pitcher's box. The Sox have their slickest pitching in 40 years, or since the memorable days of Babe Ruth. Smokey Joe Wood, Dutch Leonard, Ernie Shore, George Foster and Carl Mays.

For three campaigns, the Red Sox had only one dependable reliever, Ellis Kinder, now 41.

Manager Higgins now has two more who spit in the opposition's eye in taking over for a faltering starter. They are the right-handed Tommy Hurd and the southpaw Leo Killy. Hurd, 31, looks harmless enough at 5-9 1-2 and 155, but he isn't afraid of the devil. Killy, 25, never did regain weight lost in the spring of 1954, but both these firemen employ a sinking fast ball as a trap for double plays.

The Red Sox pitching was highly effective even while the club was getting off to a frightful start. There is always somebody around to come in and throw hard. The Red Sox' more recent doubleheader at Yankee Stadium was typical. When the heat got Willard Nixon and his wide assortment and Mel Parnell was pummeled, in came Ike Delock and Hurd to slam the door in the Yankees' faces.

As well equipped for fire fighters as he is, Higgins doesn't hesitate to send a starter to the rescue of a starter. The fast-balling Delock opened the season well as a starter, but was out three and a half weeks when virus settled in his arm.

The Red Sox kept right on going without Parnell and Delock and with Ted Williams, the thumper, confined to the dugout with an aching back.

Parnell's knee mended, but he missed a turn because of a kink in his arm. There would be more headache tablets for the enemy if this exponent of being able to balance a stock model car on two wheels while traveling at top speed—a greater distance than any other stuntman in his chosen field.

Some of the stunts the Hell Drivers engage in nightly at the fairs are ramp to ramp leaps in which one sedan is catapulted through one hundred feet of space while another careers beneath, flipping autos end over end in deliberate crash rolls, Roman steeple chase racing in new sedans to name but a few.

When gigantic, long-armed and long-striding Frank Sullivan comes off the mound with a pitch, the batter gets the general idea that the ball starts coming at him at a point directly below his nose. Games lost by Tom Brewer early in the going were beautifully pitched.

Hell Drivers to Appear at Saline County Fair Aug. 2

The merchants of speed and thrills return to the Saline County Fair on the night of Tuesday, Aug. 2 under the banner of Jack Kochman Hell Drivers. Long-rated at the top of their particular field, the Hell Drivers plan a full evening of thrills when they present their 28 event program.

The fleet of cars and trucks used by the Hell Drivers in this precarious sport are all brand new 1955 models. The head man of this unusual troupe is Neil Hamilton, who when not dashing around the country with the daredevils, makes his home in Lake Worth, Fla. Neil has the distinction of being able to balance a stock model car on two wheels while traveling at top speed—a greater distance than any other stuntman in his chosen field.

Some of the stunts the Hell Drivers engage in nightly at the fairs are ramp to ramp leaps in which one sedan is catapulted through one hundred feet of space while another careers beneath, flipping autos end over end in deliberate crash rolls, Roman steeple chase racing in new sedans to name but a few.

Things Seen in All-Star Games IN THE Sport Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY United Press Sports Writer NEW YORK AP—They'll play the All-Star game today and these are some of the things you can expect to see:

First of all, a full house. It is a matter of municipal pride that Milwaukee will have them hanging from the rafters as a sign that the city has come of major league age. Even if its ball club hasn't, as of the moment.

The surest bet of the day is that Willie Mays will at some point during the game lose his hat while running for a flying ball. If he doesn't, it's a real upset.

Musial Rides Bench

When the umpire hollers "play ball" you can wager safely that Stan Musial will feel silly sitting on the bench. Do you know a man more deserving of All-Star status?

One of the day's most spectacular catches will be a one-handed, bare-handed, over-the-head grab by a kid in the stands. Everybody else around him will be waving at the TV camera.

Ted Williams will hit a home run. He usually does, and why should this be any exception?

A doctor in the house will receive an emergency summons over the winning run reaches third base. The patient's dire question will be: "Did you say two of the white pills and one of the red, or two of the red and one of the white pills?"

One of the players will be racked up and handicapped his team for the rest of the pennant race.

Dizzy Dean will tell you that you can get hurt in this one, against a power-packed field, much worse than you can in an ordinary ball game.

One gent trying to duck a foul ball will catch it squarely on the eye. Tomorrow all of the fellows at the office will ask him "what does the other guy look like?"

Feller Still Fastest

If Herb Score and Bob Turley both get into the game, one of the most interesting items should be a poll of the hitters as to which of them appeared to be the fastest. And the prospects are that veteran hitters still would put their dough on the old Bob Feller.

The ladies, bless 'em, will be on hand dressed as if it was the Eastern League. Instead of the baseball hit parade.

Red Schoendienst of the Cardinals still will be one of the best players on the field. And one of the most unappreciated.

One guy in the assemblage will break up with his doll on the theory that anybody as dumb as she is about baseball couldn't properly raise youngsters. So she can cook?

And, when the dust settles, the headlines will say:

"National League beats American League in All-Star game, 5 to 4."

Death Has 3 Lives

by Brett Halliday

Copyright 1953 by Brett Halliday

THE STORY: Private Detective Mike Shayne and his secretary Lucy Hamilton are deeply involved in a murder case and police will suspect them unless Mike solves the case. An anonymous phone call has demanded that Mike turn over money supposedly found on one of the victims and Mike fixes up a booby trap which explodes as Lucy tosses a dummy package into the blackmailer's car. The car goes into the bay.

XVII

Lucy had realized, from what Michael told her when handing her the package, that it contained some sort of bomb or explosive apparatus instead of $70,000. He had warned her explicitly against pulling the small knob protruding from the side until the instant it left her hands, and had emphasized the fact that she must immediately fling herself over the edge of the Causeway after releasing it.

But there were two things Shayne hadn't been able to take into account while planning how to entrap the man. He hadn't known the driver of the car would accelerate so fast the moment the bomb landed, or even if he did and thus lost control of the speeding vehicle when the explosion occurred seconds later that the accident would occur at a point where there was no guard fence along the edge to hold the car on the roadway.

So Lucy knew miserably that she had failed in her mission as she crouched in the soft sand 30 feet below the roadway. The gray sedan had sunk without a trace in the deep ship channel of the bay which paralleled the Causeway here, and there didn't appear the slightest chance that the driver could be rescued alive. So, for the second time this same evening, a man who might be a murderer and who certainly had some guilty knowledge of murder had died through some fault of hers before he could be questioned.

She shuddered at the thought and tried to thrust it into the back of her mind. On the Causeway above her, she could hear cars stopping now, shouts and excited voices as occupants leaped out and converged at the point where the sedan had gone over.

At the same moment, she heard a second sound. From out on the surface of the bay to her right. The loud splashing of oars, and then the low voice of Michael Shayne called urgently, "Lucy! Are you there, Lucy?"

She scrambled to her feet and saw him plainly. Bending his back into powerful oar-strokes that was driving a light skiff toward the shore 20 feet ahead of her.

"Here, Michael!"

The prow of the rowboat came in fast to ram against the sand directly in front of her just as the beams of two flashlights flashed down over the side of the embankment ahead of them and men began sliding down to the point where the gray sedan had gone under.

"In here quick, Lucy," Shayne ordered, standing and stretching out his hand to take hers. The moment she stepped inside, he shoved off hard and swung the prow about to row toward the excited group at the foot of the embankment ahead.

He spoke low and urgently. "Sit quiet and let me do the talking. We've been for a midnight row. I know the man went over the edge and is probably drowned. Tell me just this. Did everything go as planned? Anyone see you before the accident? Anything to hook you up with it?"

"I don't think so. There were no cars close when he pulled up. There was a loud explosion and then suddenly the car went over."

"They were very close to the group by the water's edge now. Shayne stopped rowing to call loudly: "What's the trouble?"

At that moment a brilliant searchlight lit up the scene from the roadway above and an authoritative voice called down gruffly, "Come back up here, all of you. Got to start moving your cars out of the way to make room for a winch truck. Any of you know anything, we'll take your statements up here."

"I've got a rowboat," Shayne shouted up at the glaring light. "Want me to stand by here to help you locate the car?"

"Good idea."

A uniformed man came sliding down. He stood stock-still and stared with open-mouthed astonishment at the redhead and his secretary sitting in the boat under the bright light from above.

Michael Shayne! What are you doing here?"

"Offering to help you locate the car that went over," Shayne snapped. "Hello yourself, Roberts. Ever met my secretary, Miss Hamilton?"

"No . . . I . . ." The young patrolman was still goggling helplessly. He turned to shout lustily up the bank. "It's that redheaded Shamus from Miami, Sarge. Here in a rowboat with a dame."

"Okay. So it's a cinch they didn't shove him over," an irate voice shouted back. "Row out from shore a little and try an oar to see if you find anything. Wrecker'll be here in a minute with grappling hooks."

"You step out, Lucy," said Shayne quietly.

She reached the safety island between east and westbound traffic, and paused to catch her breath when a man hurried up behind her and caught her arm tightly. She whirled about to see Timothy Rourke's grimly elongated countenance. "Where's Mike? Did it happen to the man we wanted?"

Lucy nodded mutely to the last question, wilted suddenly in Rourke's arms and sobbed.

Predict Near Record Crops

WASHINGTON (AP)—A near-record crop production is in prospect for the 1955 harvest season.

Despite acreage controls, unseasonably freezes, searing drought, and the usual horde of crop-destroying insects, the nation's farms are expected to harvest the largest crop since 1948.

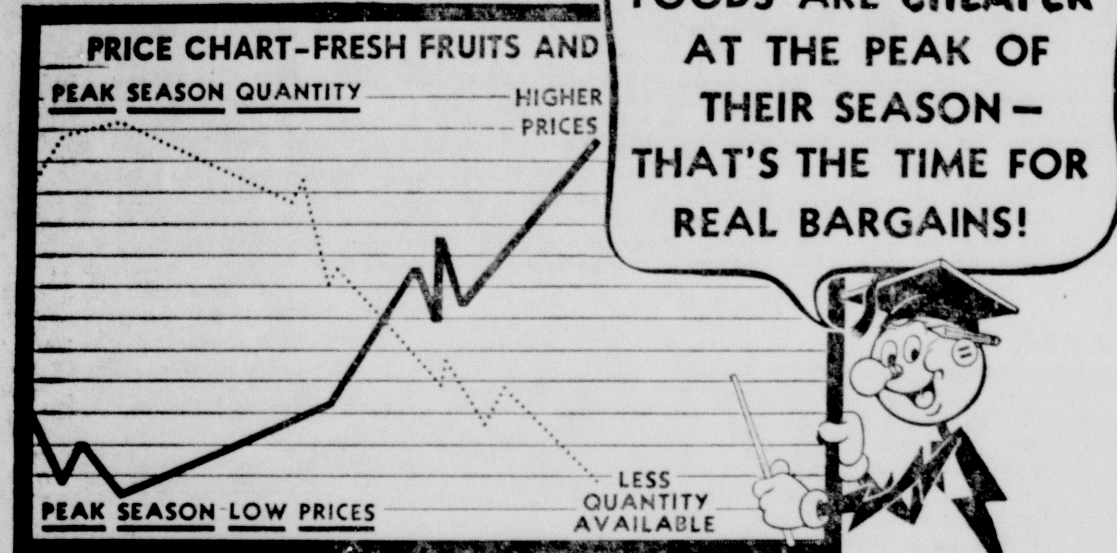

The Agriculture Department's crop reporting board, in its first overall look at 1955 prospects, Monday forecast a corn crop of 3,430,000,000 bushels, second only to the 3,605,000,000 bushel crop of 1948. Such an outturn would be 16 per cent more than last year's crop, and 12 per cent above the 10-year average.

The wheat crop, beset by drought in the southern Great Plains, acreage controls, and a lower parity support rate, was estimated at 860,000,000 bushels. This is 15,000,000 bushels above the June 1 forecast, but 11 per cent smaller than the 1954 crop of 970,000,000 bushels. The all-wheat crop includes 663,000,000 bushels of winter wheat and 197,000,000 bushels of spring wheat. Despite a lower-than-average crop, there will be no danger of a wheat shortage. The government has enough wheat in storage which, added to the prospective crop, will give the nation a two-year supply.

Second Car He Ever Owned!

Time was when a man wouldn't have considered a Cadillac until he had owned four—or five—or even six different motor cars.

But nowadays more and more motorists—like the happy man you see in the picture above—are stepping right up from their first car to a Cadillac.

There are, we think, two basic reasons for this wonderful change.

To begin with, the temptation to make the move to Cadillac has never been greater than it is today.

The car's arresting grace and beauty . . . its captivating luxury and graciousness . . . and its heart-winning performance have all been brought to new peaks of perfection for 1955.

And secondly, the path to Cadillac has never before been so clearly marked or so easily traveled.

Take original cost, for instance. The purchase price of the lowest-priced Cadillac is actually little more than many models in the medium-price field.

And then consider Cadillac's economy. Few automobiles of any size or make will travel farther on a gallon of gasoline . . . and the car is all but free from any save the most routine costs of maintenance.

And, finally, there is the car's resale value. Year after year, Cadillac cars return their owners a higher percentage on their original investments than any other automobiles in the land.

So if you want a Cadillac—don't feel that you have to advance gradually to the car of cars.

If you are ready to make the move, the automobile you now own is the perfect steppingstone.

Why not stop in soon and see for yourself? You'll find that we have some very pleasant news for you about cost and delivery.
